Sunday October 29th a new eSport and gaming related TV program will premiere in Swedish TV. Xover.tv is the company behind a program series focusing entirely on TV- and computer games. Together with the Swedish TV channel, Channel Local a two hour program will be broadcasted once a week.

"Sweden is an amazing gaming country. We have some of the best game developers, best eSport teams and hundreds of thousands and active gamers. Xover.tv will focus on large online games such as Counter-Strike, World of Warcraft and the Sims. We will also show new exiting game titles, reports about the gaming world and show the viewers own recorded game sequences."

-Rikard Ljungman, CEO for Xover.tv

"We that work at Xover.tv all have one thing uncommon. We are all very interested in gaming and make program that we as gamers wants to watch. The most important thing is that the viewers like the programs and their feedback is very important for us. On our website www.xover.tv our hosts will answer questions and receive people's point of view. The viewers can also register on the website and get the chance to participate in the program." - Tommy Gärdh, operating manager at Xover.tv

Three programs for different tastes

Xover.tv will show three different programs adjusted for people with different interests about gaming. In Serious Fun, the hosts Henrik and Erika Falk will show their favourite game the Sims. Game Bubbles is the program where game experts show their favourite game as well as guide the viewers through new game titles. Christer Engström is host for Battle room and will interview game developers. He will also talk to eSport profiles regarding highly topical matches in the largest online games.

Will be shown in the Swedish TV channel, Channel Local and on the Webb

The first season will be shown until new-years. The programs will be shown on all off Channel Locals stations in Stockholm, Gothenburg, skåne and Östergötland. The premiere is on Sunday 29th of October with start at 22.00 CET. Xover.tv will also stream their programs live via the website www.xover.tv using a new peer-to-peer technology from the Danish company Octoshape.
